SCHOOL REPORT.

In reviewing the year we notice first the school buildings. These are all still standing in about the same condition as last year, with a few additional chinks produced by time and the boys. In their present condition, and with the means put into our hands, we have thought best to expend only so much as would render them habitable during the milder seasons of the year. Numbers 1 and 3 could not be safely used in severe weather. We hope our fellow townsmen will see fit, at the coming spring meeting, to make such provision and take such action in relation to our school buildings as will make them respectable in appearance and comfortable for use. In the absence of scholars Numbers 4 and 9 were unoccupied the past year, and from the present outlook will likely remain unused the coming year. We made no change in the text books of the schools, but have purchased Zaggy's Anatomical Study—an excellent help in the study of the human body. It will be placed in the schools next term. The teachers employed were for the most part already well known and approved, and with one exception the same teachers continued in their respective schools throughout the year. We think this, where it can be done satisfactorily, is a great advantage to both teachers and scholars in the prosecution of their work.

The school year was shorter than usual, but for its length we think it was a very profitable one. If it is proper for us to append to this review some suggestions which we think would tend to increase the efficiency of our schools, we would sum them up in the following particulars.

To our townsmen, that they provide a little more generously for the schools.

To our teachers, that they maintain a kindly watch over the children for the whole time they are in charge, and that they give a little more attention to order in some of the schools.

To scholars, that they attend as promptly and regularly as possible, and to parents and guardians, that they coöperate heartily in securing regular attendance and good order in the schools.

We enjoyed our connection with the schools, and we desire to express our hearty appreciation of the kindness extended to us in the discharge of our official duties.

SPECIAL REPORT.

NO. 1.

Miss Etta C. Ware teacher for the school year. We were, as always, very much pleased with Miss Ware as a teacher, and she gave, we believe, very general satisfaction. An outbreak of measles in the school cut the first term very short, making it necessary to extend the last term well into the winter, and during the latter part of this term a snow and rain storm drove us out of the old school house into the High school room in the vestry. But notwithstanding these disturbances, the work done in this school was very good, and reflected great credit on teacher and scholars.

NO. 2.

This is a very interesting little school, and is growing larger. Miss Eva M. Wilkins had charge of the school both terms. It was her first experience in teaching, and we think she did well. The examinations disclosed some very bright little scholars here. This school house is antique within and rather scant in its furnishings.

NO. 3.

Miss Flora J. Barber had charge of this school both terms. She won the praise which popularity confers. Sickness in her home made it necessary to shorten the last term by one week and to close without a final examination, but all the evidences pointed to good work in this school for the year. This school house is one of the most dilapidated in use.

NO. 5.

This is one of our best and most advanced schools, and was conducted by one of our best teachers. Miss Sarah F. Weston taught through the school year. The attendance was exceptionally prompt and constant. The scholars were orderly and studious, and the results attained were correspondingly good and praiseworthy.

NO. 6.

Miss Lizzie A. Tyrrel taught both terms with her usual fidelity, and earned for herself a good report. This is a delightful school and did good work the past year. A more regular attendance on the part of some of the scholars would have given a still better result.

NO. 7.

This school secured the teacher of its choice—Miss M. Lizzie Hadley of Jaffrey, for both the regular school terms, and at their conclusion she was secured at private expense for a brief winter term in the same locality. Examinations witnessed to earnest and thorough work throughout the year.

NO. 8.

The summer session was taught by Miss Nettie I. A. Stearns, who entered upon her work with enthusiasm, and with every prospect of a happy and successful term, but to the regret of all concerned was obliged by sickness to retire at the end of three weeks. This made it necessary to extend correspondingly the fall term, which was conducted by Miss Nellie L. Davis. During this term the school reached the second place in point of numbers, and made a very creditable advance in the studies pursued.
